Split Over Earlier Thanksgiving Date Widens in Nation

The nation-wide chorus of consternation and protest over President Roosevelt's action in fixing the official Thanksgiving Day a week ahead of the usual date grew in volume today.

Merchants as a rule were pleased because of the lengthening of the Christmas buying season, but many governors, especially in the New England states, athletic directors who arrange the college football schedules and just plain citizens were considerably peeved over the rude shattering of a tradition that has stood since the days of Abraham Lincoln.

The possibility arose that some states may have two Thanksgiving days, the one proclaimed by the President and the other a week later to be proclaimed by non-conforming governors.

In fact, Gov. Lee O'Daniel of Texas announced he planned to hew a middle, or rather a double line, by proclaiming two dates.

MERCHANTS APPROVE

While leaders of patriotic societies and the ordinary man in the street who has been used to celebrate Thanksgiving on the last Thursday in November grumbled, the National Retail Dry Goods Association pointed out that merchants depend for almost 15 per cent of their annual gross business on the Christmas season.

They were far from being angry over the extra week added to the holiday shopping season.

Myles Standish, a 69-year-old Middleboro poultry grower, said an

A Portable Thanksgiving

By "BUGS" BAER

After grasshopping with the Constitution, playing leapfrog with the Supreme Court and touch tag with recovery, the Administration is playing hopscotch with the calendar.

Franklin D. has jumped Thanksgiving Day up a week on the chronological docket because it is too close to Christmas and too far away from Labor Day. If Frank'lin wants to get popular switching holidays he can move income tax day right off the deep end of the wharf.

Governors Wilson, Carr, Saltonstall, Barrows, Hell and Aiken have officially announced that the good, old-fashioned Thanksgiving is all right with them and that the last Thursday in November is the people's choice. If Franklin makes it fall on the 23d they will play deep and catch it on the bounce.

The good neighbor policy seems to consist of eating your bird a week ahead of schedule and then crashing the dinner next door on the traditional date. Not that it means anything because we are getting further away from the American tradition than a PWA bridge is from water.

No turkey can keep two dates except in the shape of hash.

Franklin has now moved inaugural day up a couple of loose months, shuffled Thanksgiving Day up a week and almost obliterated pay day.

But there are two holidays that Franklin D. cannot fool us with his double entry bookkeeping. The fellow who puts on whiskers on April Fool's Day is not Santa Claus.

POLISH SOLDIER SLAIN AT DANZIG

DANZIG, Aug. 16 (AP)—The killing of a Polish soldier by Danzig frontier guards on the Danzig-Polish border today clouded the efforts of Prof. Carl J. Burckhardt, League of Nations high commissioner, to clarify the grave Danzig situation in a meeting with Danzig Nazis and Polish officials.

Burckhardt had Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig Senate, and Marian Chodacki, Polish commissioner-general, in his office here for a conversation which lasted barely a half-hour. Chodacki planned to leave late today for Warsaw.

The meeting was described in Polish circles as merely a "contact." Danzig officials declined to make any comment on the meeting with Burckhardt.

THIRD SERIOUS INCIDENT

The shooting of the soldier, Aleksander Rozanovske, was the third serious incident which has marked the bitter Danzig quarrel between Nazi Germany and Poland in recent months.

Polish and Danzig versions of the shooting differed today, as they did in the previous cases. Two Poles and one Danziger have been killed in the three border incidents.

Danzig police said that Rozanovske, carrying a rifle, was some 300 yards from the border when he failed to heed a command to halt and was shot.

The Polish version was that the Polish soldier was only 15 meters (about 16 yards) from the border after having lost his way in the darkness. The shooting occurred in the early morning hours.

DENY SHOT BY POLE

When Danzig police claimed that Rozanovske had fired at least one shot, the official Polish version was that the Polish soldier had not fired at all.

A Danzig communique said:

"A Polish soldier appeared this morning on Danzig soil close to the frontier barrier at the border crossing of Kohling.

"When the Danzig frontier guards called out, the Polish soldier pointed his rifle at the Danzig officials.

"The Danzig officials thereupon made use of their weapons, whereby the Polish soldier was mortally wounded."

FOUR SHOTS FIRED

Danzig police said the soldier wore a Polish Army uniform, but carried no identification papers.

Four shots were fired, police said, one of them by the Pole.

The new incident came as the League of Nations high commissioner, Prof. Carl J. Burckhardt, was attempting to quiet the troubled Danzig situation by bringing Polish Commissioner Gen. Marian Chocacki and Arthur Grei-

A.L. OPENS 4-DAY TAUNTON SESSION

TAUNTON, Aug. 16—From all sections of Massachusetts, American Legionnaires swarmed today into this city for the 21st annual state convention of the veterans.

The convention, which will run through Saturday with an attendance of more than 10,000 members of the Massachusetts department, opened with registrations this morning, the first business session coming this afternoon.

For the four-day meeting an elaborate program has been drawn up, including, in addition to the various business sessions, two street parades, a clambake, band concerts, athletic events and competitions for drum corps, bands and drill teams.

MANY SEEK OFFICES

Spirited contests for major offices also are expected, with three candidates for department commander, 10 of the five vice-commander posts, three for historian and numerous aspirants for all of the 10 county district offices.

Tonight, at Hotel Taunton, will come the dinner to the state executive committee, sponsored by Mayor Arthur E. Poole, who is host to the visiting Legionnaires.

Tomorrow at 10 a. m. the general convention session will open at Taunton high school. At 2 p. m. there will be a clambake at Rogers Pavilion and at 3 p. m. the lady visitors will be given a tea at the Hotel Taunton, with Mrs. Poole, wife of the mayor, as hostess.

MARATHON TOMORROW

At 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, the Marathon race, from the Taunton Boys' Club, over the road and return to Hopewell Park, will be started.

On Friday there will be a golf session at Segregansett Country Club, starting at 9 a. m., the convention session at 10 a. m., water sports in Hopewell Park at 1:30 p. m. and the 40 and 8 street parade at 7 p. m., followed at 8 o'clock by a military ball in the state armory.

The Grand Theater will put on a midnight show Friday.

On Saturday, the closing day, comes election of officers from 8 a. m. until noon, with the various band, drum and drill competitions being held during the same period.

BIG PARADE SATURDAY

The big parade, topping off the annual convention, is scheduled to get under way at 3 p. m. Saturday, with more than 10,000 in line.

A number of proposed amendments to the Legion state constitution will be voted upon at the convention, chief among them being one to drop the Australian ballot system of electing and return to the old method of choosing officers by the rollcall of posts.

This is the system used by the national department and all other state departments.

The department commander's post, now held by John J. Maguire of Watertown, is sought by Ralph M. Lavers of Southbridge, Dr. Elton V. Faass of Medfield and Richard Cunningham of Dorchester.

Europe Nears Showdown

By the Associated Press

DANZIG—Polish soldier killed by Danzig frontier guards; allegedly answered call to halt by pointing rifle at guards.

LONDON—Feeling prevails that European deadlock headed for showdown despite lack of tangible clues; official silence on intense diplomatic activity following Hitler-Burckhardt interview strengthens belief of impending developments.

BERLIN—Stiffened Nazi attitude towards Poland, other tension signs heighten conviction of early Danzig solution.

ROME—Mussolini's plans to entertain Generalissimo Franco elaborately in late September regarded as indication Il Duce expects neither major crisis nor likelihood of autumn war.

Fr. Divine 'Heaven' Next Door to F. D.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16—"Father" Divine, Harlem cult leader, is to establish an auxiliary "Heaven" on the palatial 700-acre Frederick William Vanderbilt estate on the Hudson river, New York, immediately adjoining that of President Roosevelt, it was revealed here today.

Negotiations for the purchase of the magnificent baronial estate, directly across the river from another auxiliary "Heaven"—the "Krum Elbow" estate sold them by Howland Spencer—are being carried on in Newport with Mrs. Margaret Louise Van Alen.

To this town on Sunday will come trainloads of Father Divine's "angels" to inspect "The Castle," the mansion offered for sale by Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman after the town fathers had refused her a liquor license. Mrs. Kaufman had proposed changing "The Castle," once the estate of Richard Washburn Child, into a restaurant.

Mrs. Van Alen, mother of Princess Louise Mdivani, of the famous "marrying Mdivanis," Georgian princess, left her Newport home yesterday for a six weeks' trip to Europe. It was her uncle, Frederick Vanderbilt, railroad director and financier, who lived in the new prospective "Heaven" till his death June 29, 1938.

John Lamb, white secretary for the dark evangelist who is God to his followers, said that President Roosevelt, in answer to a letter from Father Divine asking if he would disapprove the purchase, replied he had no objections.

"Anyone has a right to purchase property in this country and I hope only that the Vanderbilt estate will be purchased by someone who will take care of it," the President said in his reply to Father Divine, according to Lamb.

Hallelujah-shouting followers of the Harlem evangelist are reported to have raised a $15,000,000 land-buying fund.

Asking price for the magnificent Vanderbilt estate was $500,000 several months ago. The house is a Grecian-Corinthian mansion built by Vanderbilt in 1898 and fitted with furnishings from the Malmaison Palace, once abode of the conqueror Napoleon.

With funds whose source remains a mystery despite the investigations of federal and state governments and private workers, the cult has already established 22 Manhattan "Heavens," a 50-room private retreat for Father Divine on swanky Madison avenue in upper New York City, and 50 rural "Heavens" in upstate New York.

COLLETTE LYONS, HUB'S GIFT TO "SCANDALS"
Her Acting Hit by Censor's Edict

'SCANDALS' GIVEN O. K. OF CENSOR

ANN MILLER
Bumps Dance Is Out

It's still pretty scandalous, but George White's "Scandals" show was given official approval today, after hasty revamping of lines and a general distribution of more clothing to the dancing beauties.

City Censor John J. Spencer, who sent a drastic warning to the Shubert theater management that the musical comedy must be "cleaned up immediately," said today enough changes had been made to remove objectionable portions of the show.

The entire cast, including many dancers and actors such as the Knight Sisters dancing duo from New York, who were not mentioned in the censor's edict, were "dressed up" a bit in order to be certain of the official O. K.

Among the players hit by the city censor's edict was a pretty Boston girl, Collette Lyons, who plays the role of Madame Du Barry in a comedy scene with three male comedians.

Literally taking the "Scandals" apart from opening curtain to finale, Censor Spencer began by ordering that Christine Forsyth, who plays the role of a gorgeous Amazon in Act I, "put on more clothes."

In his original edict Spencer ordered that the entire scene, called "Mexiconga" be eliminated from the show—but he later compromised to the extent of banning only the particular dance, "The Bumps."

EILEEN'S DREAM COME TRUE

UP YOU GO—Smiling Eileen Parker, Boston's own orphan, gets a lift from Brother Joe, just before leaving for Hollywood "dream trip."

HUB ORPHAN GIRL ON 'DREAM TRIP'

There was Dorothy. And Joe. And it was a time for a lot of hugging, and kissing, and a few tears. What difference did it make that the whole of Boston was outside of the car window, and a band was playing as everyone—yes, everyone—was trying to wish her Godspeed on her journey to Hollywood?

She was with her own—and that was the most important thing in the world.

And it was so that Eileen Parker, Boston's luckiest little orphan, started off on the most glorious adventure of all of her 13 years last evening at South Station. She is on her way right now to the film capital where she will be a guest for four days of Linda Ware, screendom's newest child star, 14-year-old who shares honors with Bing Crosby in "The Star Maker."

She's to be Linda's guest, because Linda knows what it is to be an orphan, and to live in other people's homes, with no family of your own. She, too, is an orphan.

It was all very exciting at South Station, as she and Miss Isabel Macdonald, her chaperone and companion boarded the Wolverine at 4:30 p. m. for Chicago, Denver, Salt Lake City and as the train callers say, "points West."

There was the Norman Prince Post band, for one thing, strong and loud, and good, playing all sorts of stirring marches. And there were signs and banners, and hundreds of people, who paused on their busy ways to watch the happiness of a little girl.

"Isn't she pretty?" said the women, and "a cute kid," said the men, and everybody, maybe, got a little bit of a lump in their throat over her joyous smiles.

OLD FRIENDS ON HAND

And all the people who have been so kind to her through the years were there, too—the nice women who, at one time or another, had taken her in as a ward of the city, and had loved her as a part of their families. City officials were there to see their ward on her way, including her "visitors," the sweet girls who spend their lives watching over the welfare of such as she.

And there were flowers—orchids, no less—from Walter Rogers, who, strangely enough, is a brother of

Police Mourn Boy Poison Victim

Hardened policemen of the Roxbury Crossing station and an entire neighborhood today mourned happy-go-lucky Richard C. Adley, 2½, little victim of a game of "playing doctor."

The youngster, great favorite of gruffest of officers in his many visits to the station house, died at City Hospital of a mystery poison. Many of them had fed him ice cream cones when he got lost and then carried him home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Adley of Highland pl., Roxbury.

The tragedy, in which Richard played the role of a "sick baby," was blurted out by Eddie Tompkins, 8, also of Highland st., who played at being "doctor."

Little Richard had found a bottle, contents of which still are undetermined, and he and Eddie began their tragic game.

They pretended that Richard had an earache which the medicine was to cure.

"I put some in his ears," Eddie told the police. "But I told him not to drink it—and he did."

The boy began to scream from the effects of the poison and Dr. Hyman Millner was called. He ordered him to City Hospital. There doctors made the startling discovery that he was blind and suffering from inflammation of the brain.

They decided here was small hope for his life and none that he would see if he lived. Several hours later he died. The boy's sister, Margaret, too, had been playing "doctor" with them, but she did not take any of the medicine. Neither did Tompkins.

Until a chemical analysis of the contents of the bottle is completed the doctors will not know exactly what caused death. The boy's mother, Mrs. Clara Adley was in collapse.

His father, Charles E. Adley, said he had taken several bottles of medicine from the third floor apartment of a man who died recently in the same building and put them in a barrel for the ash men to take away. There were too many for the barrel so he placed what was left in a wooden box. This the ash men refused to remove.

It was from this box the bottle with the poison came.

Woman Plunges Down Shaft as She Is Chatting

Walking along while engaged in a conversation, Mrs. Marcia S. Smith, 39, of Pine st., Winchester, a Burlington school teacher, stepped into an elevator shaft in the Hatch building, Columbus ave., today.

She fell 42 feet to the bottom of the pit, suffering what physicians at the Massachusetts General Hospital fear is a fracture of the pelvis bone.

She was talking with Henry Margiunette, brother of the owner of a book bindery in the building, when the accident happened.

Margiunette told police he pulled a rope to bring down the freight elevator when Mrs. Smith turned and stepped into the open shaft.

LEVINE SUSPECT QUIZZED ON NOTES

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Aug. 16 (AP)—Walter C. Clark, 23-year-old former assistant scoutmaster, faced further questioning by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today as a result of an announcement by Police Chief Arthur Bennett that he had confessed sending extortion notes demanding $10,000 from the father of Peter Levine soon after the New Rochelle, N. Y., boy was kidnaped over a year ago.

RANSOM WRITER — Admitting, according to police, that he wrote two of the numerous ransom notes to Murray Levine, of New Rochelle, father of kidnaped and murdered Peter Levine, 12, Walter C. Clark, 23, Fairfield, Ct., scoutmaster (above), was being held today.

Peter, 12, was kidnaped Feb. 28, 1938. His headless torso was found along the Westchester County, N. Y., shore several weeks later. His slayer never was apprehended.

Two agents from the New York office of the F. B. I. questioned Clark for three hours during the night, but kept mum on the results of their interview.

Clark, Chief Bennett asserted, was being held under $10,000 bond on a charge of attempted extortion.

Chief Bennett said the prisoner, while being questioned in connection with the burglary case, admitted writing the extortion notes to Murray Levine, the victim's father, as "a practical joke."

He had "nothing to do with the kidnaping itself," the chief added.

The police official said Clark also confessed making a telephone call from St. Paul's Church in Fairfield in March, 1938—which then mystified investigators—in a futile attempt to contact Levine in New Rochelle.

At that time Clark was an executive of the Boy Scout troop in the Fairfield church.

Clark, bespectacled only son of a widowed mother, was employed as a shipping clerk in a Fairfield factory.

2 Bay State Outfits In War Game Battle

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 16—Two Massachusetts regiments, the 101st from Boston, and the 182d, recruited from counties along the North Shore, plunged into the underbrush in the combat area near Lake Champlain today to "annihilate" each other.

More than 5000 men were engaged in the "battle" which is a warm-up for a Yankee Division action next Monday, and the full First Army maneuvers August 23 to 25, inclusive.

The men were enslemned again as they plunged into simulated combat that there are only "phonies at war."

They carried no bayonets, and every round of blank ammunition had been inspected to make sure that no live shells found their way into magazines.

SPARING ON BLANKS

Blanks are provided to lend an air of reality to a combat deal in an carefully fought according to the rules as a battle arose in a Shakespearian play, with judges rendering a post-battle decision more like a critique than a end of victory.

But the set-timer in this war game doesn't fire blanks when he can help it. For each discharge means more work in cleaning the rifle afterward, and the authorities have an understandable habit of holding frequent and not always unwarranted inspections during the exercise.

There was, however, a morning reveille of rifle and machine gun fire as the 101st and the 182d made initial contact, as much in earnest as if the and were defending North against the invaders from the South Shore, and the other were trying to seize the state capital.

A hill, covered with tall timber and tangled with underbrush, was named as the objective for which both sides were struggling. As they left camp, the troops were singing, but a good look at the wild terrain over which they were to crawl and wriggle Indian fashion during the day brought determined silence.

The warning for opposing troops to keep at least 100 yards from each other was repeated, since the last wading from a blank cartridge can cause a painful, if not serious, injury at point blank range.

One regiment stayed out of action, the 26th Medical, commanded by Col. Karl R. Bailey, Boston church [illegible] bacteriologist.

REVEAL "SHELLFIRE"

Since there were to be no simulated casualties in today's engagement, the 26th Medical Regiment was ordered to stay in camp and practice plotting gas tests against the necessities of later campaigns, when smoke bombs will be used to give the effect of shell fire and aerial bombardment.

Among the regiment's officers are Lt. Col. James J. Hurley of the veterans division of the Department of Mental Health; Major Gordon Hall, Boston dentist, and Major Charles A. Salmon, Worcester school physician. The entire includes 272 men and 27 officers.

SEIZE SON OF SLEUTH AS BANDIT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 16 (AP)—Captain Ernest F. Stenhouse of the state police today said that John A. Hutton, 17 year-old son of a Pawtucket police inspector, and three other youths would be charged with the armed robbery of a Cumberland ice cream stand and the larceny of $30.

Young Hutton, and one of the other youths, William J. Lorraine of Providence, were located by Hutton's father, Inspector William W. Hutton, and were turned over by him to East Providence police, who desired to question the two young men in connection with a break into a lunchcart at Crescent Park, local amusement resort.

Hutton is the son of Inspector Hutton by a previous marriage and does not live with his father.

Stenhouse said that Hutton, Lorraine and John Doherty, together with William M. Martitz of Pawtucket, who also is to be charged with armed robbery of the ice cream stand, left for Maine last Friday morning, "ditched" their car in a river when engine trouble developed near Portland, stole another car and drove to Lewiston.

In Lewiston, Stenhouse said, the four youths stole a second car and returned to Rhode Island.

GEORGE CONANT, 38

George Conant, 38-year-old WPA worker on a building project in the Charlestown Navy Yard, gave John Norcott, 32, credit for saving his life today when Conant slipped from a roof on which he was working and fell 45 feet, landing on Norcott.

Both men were in the Charlestown Marine Hospital suffering from fractured vertebrae, and Conant with a broken leg, but the WPA worker cheerfully maintained that he was lucky Norcott happened to be where he was.

"If Mr. Conant had landed here I'd be killed, too," Conant declared.

Test Sanity of Boy 'Torture Brander'

A normal looking boy of 16 was under observation at Psychopathic Hospital today following a tale of almost incredible cruelty told by police, who accuse him of assault and battery and the branding, mutilation and torture of Louis Palmer, 43, a paralyzed World War veteran, who died in Chelsea Naval Hospital last night.

Because of his youth, and the fact he is suspected of unsound mind, authorities won't reveal his name.

They say he branded the veteran with a white hot curling iron 17 times, and Palmer, a paralytic, was unable to fight him off.

If the psychopathic experts on mental diseases say he was mentally responsible, he will be in Roxbury juvenile court tomorrow.

Judge Frankland W. Miles will take the testimony, probably featured by the evidence of the hospital doctors.

Paralyzed from the throat down, Palmer escaped the agony of branding and burning that would have been suffered by anyone whose nervous system was in a normal condition, doctors say. But he was taken to the hospital to be treated for the effects.

The boy had been the companion of the bed-ridden veteran; had run errands and otherwise cared for him. A week ago last Friday the two became involved in an argument. The boy informed the police he resented remarks made about a relative.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL

Over a gas jet he heated a curling iron until it was red hot. Then he advanced upon the helpless man and eight separate times he laid the searing iron against the flesh about the abdomen.

When the iron had cooled he held it over the gas flame until it was red hot again. Then he thrust it eight times more against the man's body. Palmer could not defend himself in any way, and though he realized what was happening, the numbed flesh did not react with pain.

But for a last thrust the boy laid the iron against Palmer's face. This time the veteran screamed with pain and the boy fled in fright. Palmer lay there for hours before he was found.

He was taken to City Hospital and kept overnight for treatment. The next day he was taken to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where he lingered until his death on Monday night.

An autopsy is to be performed, and upon the result of it and the report from the Psychopathic Hospital will depend the charges on which the boy is to be brought into court.

Arrest Newton Man in Tourist Cabin Drama

Alleged melodrama at a North Attleboro overnight cabin resulted in the arrest by Boston police today of Philip Woodman, 29, of Jassett st., Newton, on an Attleboro warrant charging him with assault with criminal intent on a Brighton woman.

The alleged assault was on Mrs. Catherine Goldberg, 32, of Murdock st., Brighton, mother of one child.

Boston police said they expect the arrest—later—of two other men who allegedly figured in one crowded hour at the tourist cabin a week ago today.

According to Woodman's own story, he was contracted to drive Mrs. Goldberg from her home to New York but at North Attleboro, Woodman said, according to police, that he suggested she rest awhile at an overnight cabin. She assented, he said, and a cabin was hired.

She was lying down, police also said Woodman told them, and he was seated beside the bed when suddenly two men burst into the cabin.

One man carried a camera, it is alleged, and as Mrs. Goldberg sat up the man with the camera snapped the tableau.

10,000 in Siege For 600 Jobs

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16 (AP)—Ten thousand men and women, some of whom waited more than 24 hours, besieged Cleveland Stadium today to register for 600 city jobs. One man was injured in the crush. Throughout last night scores slept in chairs and cots set up on walks. Fifty policemen went to the Stadium as the crowd started to grow from about 1000 early arrivals to 6000.

Cardinal Dougherty Has 74th Birthday

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16 (AP)—Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, is 74 today.

A native of Girardville, Pa., he was ordained at Rome in 1890. He became archbishop in 1918, and was made cardinal three years later.

Paris Flier Sets Air Speed Record

PARIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—A new world's air speed record of 311.621 kilometers (193.622 miles) an hour average over a closed circuit of 10,000 kilometers (6213.7 miles) was claimed by the French Air Ministry today for Maj. Maurice Rossi.

RENEE AND TONY DE MARCO

Black Eye Bares DeMarco Row

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Things which appeared to be going pretty well in the Dancing DeMarco family lately aren't going well at all, it came up today when Robert E. Nerney showed on Broadway with a nice black eye.

Nerney is the 45-year-old father of Renee De Marco, wife and dance partner of suave and nimble-footed Tony DeMarco—and according to Poppa he was popped in the eye by his son-in-law last Sunday.

This, said Nerney, came during the course of an argument over the working contract of Renee, who had been long on the outs with Tony, but who had been thought reconciled only a few weeks ago.

The father-in-law charge was vigorously denied, however, by Tony.

The couple, known in white-tie and night club circles as The De Marcos, has been separated for a year—until Tony blew a bullet through his left-hand accidentally.

The accident and Tony's physical hurt was supposed to have reconciled the dancers and they were even photographed together in smiling poses at the La Conga night club.

Shields 3 Alleged Pals in Court, Jailed

In a dramatic scene in Roxbury court, a 22-year-old youth awaiting sentence on seven confessed charges of larceny today took a three-months jail sentence rather than testify against three associates whom police said he had already named in his confession.

The youth was Robert Merrian, of Aldie st., Allston, who rewarded a forgiving employer who saved him a previous jail term for larceny by stealing from the establishment again.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY

As Judge Samuel Eisenstadt opened the case against three men allegedly implicated with Merrian, the prisoner was called as the State's first witness, and asked to repeat what he had already said in a confession read in court by a police stenographer.

"I can't, Judge, I can't," said the youth, tears springing to his eyes.

"You have already told the police; you can repeat what you said in court," declared Judge Eisenstadt.

But the prisoner only reiterated what he had said before, sticking to it even when Judge Eisenstadt sentenced him to three months in Charles st. jail for contempt of court.

As the complaint was filled out, Merrian wept, but refused to change his decision not to testify.

CASES CONTINUED

The judge continued the cases against the three men, John Mancini, 24, arrested with Merrian last Aug. 9 as they left the Commonwealth ave. wholesale drug house where Merriam was employed; Charles MacLaron, 26, of Fayette st., Quincy, and Jacob Mentz, 42, of Foster rd., Belmont.

Mancini, who lives on Hopedale st., Allston, was charged with larceny, the other two with receiving stolen goods.

QUIZ AGED SPINSTER IN SLAYING

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A 77-year-old spinster, one-time nurse to the homes of two industrial leaders, was questioned today in the "mercy slaying" of her sister, a patient in the Allentown State Mental Hospital.

Detective James L. Christine said Miss Margaret L. Cowan shot her 67-year-old sister, Mrs. Louella Saeger, in the latter's hospital room yesterday and told him:

"I feel happier now than I have all my life. I have put my sister out of her misery. I believe anyone in misery like hers should be put out of it."

Hospital attendants found Miss Cowan kneeling beside her sister's body and placing a bunch of flowers in her hands.

The elderly former nurse was taken to the Lehigh County jail but no charge was placed against her pending questioning by District Attorney John L. Cutshall.

Police said Miss Cowan left the one-room apartment she had occupied in Quakertown, Pa., for the past four years with a garment she had sewn for her ailing sister. She joined her brother-in-law, John S. Saeger, at the hospital. They went to Mrs. Saeger's room.

A few minutes later, the husband stepped out. Miss Cowan took a .32 caliber revolver from her handbag. She fired once. The bullet went over her sister's head and lodged in one wall.

Claims for Jobless Compensation Drop

Signs of better times were shown today in an announcement by the state unemployment compensation commission that applications for compensation were still on the decrease.

Only 7349 claims were received during the week ending Aug. 9, compared to 7940 the previous week, it was reported. Shoe towns showed some increase, while Boston and textile areas in the southeast part of the state accounted for the major part of the decrease.

Bernstein Unaware of 'Kid' Threat

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (INS)—Jackie "The Kid" Coogan might have been on the verge of taking a punch at his stepfather, Arthur L. Bernstein, in a night club, but if he was, the stepfather didn't even know about the dark thought.

Bernstein said so today in answer to the story that was going the rounds of Hollywood gossip.

The story included the phase that Bernstein came into the night club with the exotic Princess Luana on his arm.

"Better make it good!" Bernstein laughed. "There were really two young ladies with me. But they were dancers who had come over from my show at the Tropics to help me pass judgment on some talent I was going to hire.

"All Jackie did or said was to shout: 'Here comes Luana and Bernstein!' He didn't even look like he was going to hit anybody. He wasn't disagreeable."

According to the story, Jackie reported to be much upset about the divorce filed by his actress wife, Betty Grable, was standing at the bar of a rendezvous for film folk, being consoled by Betty's best friend, Peggy Carroll, when Bernstein put in an appearance.

The sight of his stepfather, according to the story, angered Coogan and the kid was supposed to have said:

"Can you imagine that! He's stepping out with Luana, and my mother's probably waiting at home for him."

According to the story, when Jackie learned that Bernstein had driven up in a Rolls Royce, he was all for seeking him, but older heads were supposed to have persuaded the 23-year-old Coogan to leave quietly.

END 2ND PETZOLD INQUIRY

The grand jury today completed its probe of the "robbery ring" charges made by former Patrolman Paul A. Petzold involving police officers and announced it will report its findings on this angle of the case tomorrow.

A Boston policeman is expected to be named in additional indictments by the grand jury, which has already returned formal charges against Petzold and four convicts for armed robbery.

Remaining is a general investigation by the jury to determine whether or not there was general conspiracy involved in the Petzold case, but this phase of the inquiry will not be taken up until early September, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley announced.

Charges against the Boston patrolman are understood to be based on an attempted break at a Howard Johnson stand on Huntington ave., following testimony by police officers of the Roxbury Crossing station and employes of the stand. The officer to be indicted did not testify, it was known.

Valuable testimony was given, it was learned, by Patrolman Thomas Coyne, although he was not a member of the force while Petzold was still an officer, is understood to have carried out extensive investigations in the case.

Witnesses who wound up the police phase of the probe today were Capt. Thomas Casey of the Roxbury Crossing station, who took records of the station to the grand jury room; Lieut. James V. Crowley, first investigator of the Petzold charges, and Deputy Superintendents Benjamin Wall and James R. Claflin, members of the special commission appointed by Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty to probe the affair.

A 97-page report of their investigation is in the commissioner's hands, awaiting possible police department action against several officers on neglect of duty charges.

The officer expected to be indicted tomorrow faces a possible maximum sentence of 10 years should he be found guilty of culpable neglect of duty.

Failing to persuade Henry Channell, 46, of Baltimore, Md., to return to New York voluntarily to face charges growing out of a $1,000,000 series of jewel robberies from wealthy Long Island estates, New York police today obtained a fugitive from justice warrant against the prisoner, who is held in Charles st. jail.

The warrant was issued by Judge Frank W. Tumasello, despite Channell's protestations of innocence, and he was ordered held in $10,000 bail for hearing Aug. 23.

Nassau County, L. I., police who arrested the man said the warrant would form the basis of extradition proceedings should he persist in his refusal to "return to New York jurisdiction."

HAS POLICE RECORD

Channell, according to police, has a record dating back to 1906, including at least two felony sentences, one in Colorado and one in Connecticut. He was arrested in Boston by Detective Lieut. Marcel Chagnon of the Nassau County burglary squad.

Following much the same trail that federal agents have been ordered to pursue in their search for Louis "Lepke" Buchalter, the nation's number one racketeer, the Nassau County detective, aided by local authorities, chased tips which led him on a tour of New England's race tracks, and finally to Boston.

COE ROBBERY CITED

Inspector Harold King of the Nassau County police, apprised of the arrest, told authorities here he is anxious to question the suspect, who gives a Baltimore home address, although police records list him in a dozen cities, about a $400,000 robbery on the estate of W. R. Coe, wealthy racing stable owner.

He is also curious about a $200,000 break on the Long Island estate of Raphael Santini. In both robberies the unrecovered loot includes diamonds, rubies, and other jewels of near priceless value.

More than $1,000,000 was snatched on the Long Island North Shore in a swift succession of skillful burglaries.

More Beauty Test Entries

Entries continued to pour into the Marshfield Fair beauty contest board today for the competition to be held in selecting the prettiest Massachusetts girl as "Miss Marshfield Fair of 1939."

Virginia Hayes

The title will carry a cash prize of $15. The contest, to be staged Aug. 22, will be one of the highlights of the fair, which opens Monday and lasts the entire week.

Among those being considered for honors by the board are Helen Meader, Weymouth; Virginia F. Hayes, Alice Joseph, Assinippi, and Barbara Pfaff.

MRS. ARLENE DAVIS

Woman to Fly Hughes' Plane

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Arlene Davis, only American woman with a "4-M" or unlimited private pilot's rating, disclosed today she plans to pilot Howard Hughes' record-breaking $100,000 speed plane in the transcontinental event opening the National Air Races September 2.

The petite titian-haired socialite, who is 32, said she was awaiting a reply from the Timm Aircraft Co. of Van Nuys, California, to her written acceptance of their invitation to fly the "Winged Bullet" which the company purchased recently.

Father of Backus Dies At Summer Home

John H. Backus, 87, father of John H. Backus, Jr., New Bedford, former director of the State Securities division which was legislated out of existence last week, died today at his summer home in East Fairhaven, it was announced at the State House today.

He leaves five children.

U. S. SUBSIDY SEEN FOR OLD-AGE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Social Security Board officials said today that under the revised law, the old-age insurance program sooner or later would cease to be self-supporting and would have to be backstopped by outright government subsidies.

Because of unpredictable business conditions and inexperience with the program, they declined to guess when this condition would come about or how much of a direct subsidy would be necessary.

But they estimated that along about 1965 payments would so far exceed incoming payroll taxes that Congress would have to go to the rescue of a dwindling reserve fund.

The situation developed when Congress recently enacted amendments to the social security law which, among other things, abandon plans for a $47,000,000,000 reserve fund by 1980, revise benefit payment schedules and freeze payroll taxes at 1 per cent for employer and employe for the next three years.

In a detailed explanation of the changes, the board said today:

"The old-age reserve account is replaced by an old-age and survivors' insurance trust fund which will be maintained on a substantially 'day-to-day' basis. Since no large reserve will be built up, it is expected that the program cannot be supported entirely by payroll taxes in the relatively distant future."

An assistant to Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer said the contemplated deficit undoubtedly would be offset by outright appropriations, since Congress probably would not be disposed to increase the present schedule of a maximum tax of six per cent, three per cent each by employer and worker, in 1949.

NORMA SHEARER WITH HUSBAND AND SON
Thalberg's Romance Ideal

Time was, and not long ago, when it seemed that Norma Shearer had truly dedicated herself to the memory of her dead husband, the great and good Irving Thalberg . . .

Heart-passed and never was she seen with another man. Then within the last year, she appeared in Hollywood's gay places with Norma Shearer, one of the brightest young stars on screen or in moment. Then . . . and an ocean ride in Sea York . . . and he . . . Ruff's sending her all over town, amazed when they sailed for Europe on the same boat. Stewart promptly followed. And this series is an effort to tell the background to such an old romance destined to become . . .

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

Norma Shearer, a tyro in Hollywood, stormed into the office of Irving Thalberg, the production manager for the L. B. Mayer studios, where she was engaged in working out her first Hollywood contract.

"I won't play the role!" she cried. "It's not me. It's not—" It's terrible. And I'm sorry I came to Hollywood! And I'm sorry I accepted this contract, and and—"

"You'll play the role," he said evenly.

"I won't! I won't! Oh, why did I come here?" then, defiantly:

"I didn't have to, you know—I had two other offers."

"From whom?" said the young man with the liquid voice . . . from whom indeed? And [illegible] seemed back through her [illegible] They were both from [illegible] and her face crimsoned. Both had been signed with the same name, Irving Thalberg.

OWED ALL TO HIM

He knew that all she had all [illegible] was due to this [illegible] who had seen [illegible] picture, "The [illegible] in New York, and telegraphed an offer to her. And [illegible] that he had [illegible] upon young [illegible] an element in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer giant he had [illegible] her. And that the [illegible] because he had seen her [illegible] Later she knew [illegible] fallen in love [illegible]

[illegible] she said [illegible] which added immeasurably to her stature.

Months rolled into years before there was so much as a word of love between them. Then one day Thalberg's secretary telephoned her, asking her to come to his office.

HIS MAN IN LOVE

She had to wait, but, when admitted she found a shy young man who said to her:

"I thought, maybe, you'd like to have dinner with me."

That dinner party stretched into a romance and presently they were together constantly.

Hollywood had accepted her by now. She was getting starring roles, and her sweetness and charm had made her innumerable friends. Thalberg, on the other hand, was everybody's favorite—conceded one of the screen's few geniuses. Everyone loved and revered him. He was making such [illegible] importance. The company was becoming, rolling up millions in profits, and his position with it was [illegible]

[illegible] came another call from his secretary. Would Miss Shearer please come to Mr. Thalberg's office. Again she had to wait. Footsteps [illegible] the closed door. Finally, a little [illegible] was ushered in. She found Thalberg behind his desk blushing feverously a pile of [illegible] in front of him.

"I thought," he began, then stopped. "I thought," he said [illegible] ring for you [illegible] was in his arms. Presently [illegible] that I'd like to buy a [illegible] darling," and she [illegible] they were married.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16—Why hasn't Margaret Sullivan made a picture since the birth of her daughter six months ago? That's what fans all over the country are asking.

Yesterday I inquired at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer what had happened and why we hadn't seen Mrs. Howard on the screen for so long. I was told that she is not now to go to England in six weeks to star in "Ruined City," an adaptation of Neville Shute's novel, "Kindling."

Maggie and Robert Donat will be teamed and there's a surprise. Clarence Brown, one of M-G-M's ace directors, is working with Victor Saville on the script and will direct that and later "Pride and Prejudice," both with Donat. Last week Brown was in consultation on Edward Small's case against the British actor.

• • •

The most disappointed girl in Hollywood is Ginger Rogers who is here today and gone tomorrow. Just when her fans at RKO thought she was all ready for the preview of "My Fifth Avenue Girl," she beat it out of town headed for New York. Despite rumors, Ginger isn't meeting a boy friend in Manhattan but will join her mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers, who has been there for a few weeks. The chit-chat about Ginger and a well known film director is not true.

Katherine De Mille has adopted a baby girl. Virginia Pine out of the hospital.

Human Side of News -1- By EDWIN C. HILL

THIS ... And so to your camp and to bed ... and Mrs. ... the ... plain, and the human like squealing of a well cuffed naughty cub.

The ... ing silences, all the more grateful for the scuffling of Brother Porcupine ... the ... short, impudent bark of a predatory fox.

And then the sunrise, the first faint flush of rose and the spreading glory, and then the full bright morning.

And ... on back ... in the alders and ... Upstream around ... Lake ... with ... gossip of a wind and doings.

THEN the deep pools where the trout lie in the hot days of August and the graceful, flickering ... of silken flies cast ever so lightly over the pools.

And the thrill that almost stops the heart as a big trout shoots from the deep, curves from the cool, green depths and strikes Silver Doctor and is hooked to his doom.

SURF AT BAILEY'S ISLAND IN CASCO BAY
"There's Peace for the Soul and Rest for the Body"

And then the tranquil evening, paddling upstream, silent as a ghost.

And the deer that are surprised among the level ... as they come down to drink, hiding their tiny spotted fawns back in the alders ...

The graceful shy ... with their great, moose-like ears and their brown eyes staring so intently at the silently moving canoe ... poised on the ... of terror, ready at a flash to go leaping in curving loops back into the alders and the forest, flying their white flags behind them.

THE BLUE HERON that lifts like a seaplane from the top branch of the old pine blasted by lightning and goes soaring away.

The shellbrake ducks, mother and father and a dozen babies, stretched clear across the stream in a level line and scuttering from water to wing with a sudden ... rifle energy that sends foam behind them in a wide tormented wake.

And then the canoe-landing, and taking down the rods, and taking up the pack, and the long hard hike back over the mountain to the glow of lantern light in log cabin windows and the pleasant murmur of voices.

Maine in the month of August!

A GEOLOGIST of national fame predicts that Niagara Falls will certainly ... within twenty thousand years. That's bad news ... but we've got to do a lot of ... before that wonder of the world destroys itself. It may be less than ... hundred centuries before the old Thundering Water, as ... is appropriately named the Niagara, ... has worn away the great ... as the savage Colorado did in the Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -1- -1- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 16 — ... when ... someone sent me a quotation from an article written by Professor Thomas J. B. Wenner, in the Cleveland Press. I imagine it appeared some time ago, but this little quotation is apt to the minute: "Adolf Hitler, master orator and apostle of force, never spoke face to face with a single army of 1,000,000 men. He could do so here—to silent men who lie buried beside gnarled tree trunks on shrapnel-scarred slopes and beneath the stubby first growth which has come to replace the dense woods obliterated by shellfire . . . It would be a good thing if Europe's political giants, besides going to Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and Munich, could pay a visit to these battlefields of France."

As we read in the morning press that some of these "master minds" have gone home from Berchtesgaden, but that as yet no decisions have been announced as a result of the conference, we cannot help putting the paper down with a sigh and wish that these meetings might be held without any threat of war hanging over us.

I ENJOY all the younger generation in the family very much, but especially the ones who are at work.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Drops Paper With Sigh

Yesterday, for a few hours, I had the pleasure of having one young cousin with me who seems to be doing more and more interesting work and to be constantly developing himself.

I rested the other night and watched one particularly bright planet shining in the sky above me. ... That particular bright planet, however, seemed to be the only thing that really ... of the sky and ... it seemed to shine for me ... in the world.

It was ... like the human relationships we ... allow ourselves ... that persons outshone all others.

A balanced impartiality is supposed to be the ideal in family relations, and yet perhaps it is good for every individual to feel occasionally that he is the one bright star in the heavens.

IN READING a book which has been sent me: "Counseling Young Workers," by Jane F. Culbert and Helen R. Smith, I am impressed by the value of the information which they have gathered and the advice which they give out of their long experience.

I wonder if they would agree with me that everyone of these youngsters who come to be counseled should have back of them the feeling that they are the bright star on whom someone is counting.

That, it seems to me, is the greatest incentive to real success.

Palate-Tickling Preserves

By MARTHA LEE

What is more significant of a well-stocked pantry than shelves of delicious preserves and pickles, made in the summer and autumn when fruits and other foods are plentiful and inexpensive? [illegible]

[illegible] a pudding or a cold dessert of character, home-made berry jam and tarts can [illegible] sweet dessert. For the meat course and a number of jellies can be used as well as conserves, relishes, pickles, spiced fruits, and chutneys.

Don't make the same [illegible] pies every year without adding something different for a change. Palate tickling. Here are a few ideas, some of them new to you.

PICKLED APPLES

2 pecks apples
4 lbs. brown sugar
2 qts. vinegar
2 tbsp. whole cloves
2 tbsp. whole allspice
1 piece stick cinnamon

Heat vinegar [illegible] containing spices [illegible] minutes. Skim. Add apples and cook slowly until tender. Place apples in hot clean jars. Boil syrup until thick and use to fill jars.

GRAPE CHUTNEY

Add to each [illegible] grapes, 2 qts. chopped [illegible] seeded and chopped [illegible] brown sugar and 1 cup [illegible] Mix in preserving kettle. Add a bag containing the following spices:

1 tbsp. ground allspice
½ tsp. ginger
1 tbsp. cloves
1 stick cinnamon

Simmer slowly until about the consistency of thick sauce; then season with a tablespoon of salt and a little paprika. Seal [illegible]

SPICED DAMSON PLUM JAM

2 lbs. damson plums
3 cups sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. allspice

Wash and [illegible] plums. Place in large preserving kettle, and mash with potato masher. Add sugar, spices, and salt; cook slowly until thick, about 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Pour immediately into hot sterilized fruit jars or jelly glasses; seal or paraffin at once. Makes 2 pints.

VENISON JELLY

4 cups [illegible]
4 cups [illegible] red grape juice
¼ cup apple cider
½ tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ bottle fruit pectin

Measure sugar, grape juice, vinegar, and spices into 3 qt. sauce pan and mix. (Any desired combination of spices may be used). Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottle fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim [illegible] Pour [illegible] 6 half pints.

Style in Budget Coats

YOU CAN easily find superlative taste, intriguing detail and an air of just enough sumptuousness . . . all the qualities you want in a cold weather coat . . . in truly budget priced numbers if you know how. For instance, these coats which we [illegible] today cost only $24.50. One is trimmed with a masterpiece of fur fabric invention that not only looks like silky Persian lamb but [illegible] beautifully without pulling or fuzzing. [illegible] and a ballerina skirt that is the very gayest [illegible]

What more could a budget-bound but fashion-tapt girl want? On the left, seamire detail gives a nice-looking waistcoat effect and the Persian fur fabric is cut in a gracefully curved fitted fox-red front. There is fitted flare in back. On the right, a pair of very trimmer plastron emphasizes the shoulders of the black coat (or grape wine), and the wide back flare of ballerina fullness minimizes your waistline to practically nothing. Gambling Odds? Outrage British Blurb, Appeal

IN HIS ARTICLE ON GAMBLING GAMES and the elements of risk involved to the investor, Professor Aaron Bakst of Columbia's department of mathematics, admits that he is hopelessly befuddled in attempts to compute the fuzzy possibilities of a race horse's limbs. He thinks it may be done by some form of lunar refractions or mystic multiple, but not by simple arithmetic.

AUSTEN LAKE

But he finds that the most innocent form of gambling appears to be the honestly conducted sweepstakes or lotteries and the most pernicious is the Number Pool game in which the odds are about one million to one against winning a capital prize. Dr. Bakst figures that a $2.50 Sweeps ticket in a field of 5,500,000 has a 1-to-390,000 chance of winning one of the 14 major prizes and a 1-2500th chance of taking any of the lesser, consolation prizes.

For the poker addict he points out that the chance of filling a straight-flush is 1 in 52,000; a full-house 1 to 6000; 3-of-a-kind 1 to 50; 2-pairs 1 to 20. And with the little freckled dice cubes he says that a person has two chances in nine of winning on the first throw, though only one in six of hitting the seven and one in 18 of making an 11.

And, in his opinion, he adds there are no dice that are not "loaded," whether artificially or by the run of fate. In other words every dice cube is imperfect just as every roulette wheel is improperly balanced and every set of cards, to the microscopic eye, is "marked." Also he insists that over a protracted period in any gambling game the "house percentage" will soak up a small player's capital. In short, from an economist's standpoint and aside from any moral issue, he finds it does not pay to flirt with the lip-stick hussy known as Miss Fortune.

Whitewash by A's Knocks Hose Back As Yanks Top Nats

By JOE CASHMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 16—If the Red Sox should eventually get around to playing night ball at the Fens, John Francis Wilson for one, wouldn't complain.

Ex-Portland "Saint" Lyn can rarely outdazzle the sun of an afternoon but he can consistently match million candle power lights for dominance at night.

It's true that after starting both moonlight melees the Red Sox have played this season, "Black Jack" can point to a victory in neither, but certainly that isn't his fault.

He's pitched 15 and a fraction innings under the stars and has turned in 14 scoreless frames. He blanked the Indians for eight stanzas in a tilt which saw him relieved when he tired in the ninth and the Sox win out in the tenth.

Down here at Shibe Park last evening, before a 22,000 crowd, he had given only six hits and had fanned six when he was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eighth with the score 1 to 0 against him.

MATES FAILED TO HIT

With his mates hitting at their normal pace the Portland "Knockhouse" would have had a victory in gaining his ninth triumph.

But on this occasion the Hose were whitewashed from start to finish by Lyn "Line Drive" Nelson, who gave up only four hits.

Thus did regusted Red Sockers feel seven pitches by one of the Yankees who beat the Sawbones on the afternoon and Mr Wilson suffered his eighth defeat.

All of which doesn't alter our opinion that "Black Jack" would be a 20-game winner if he could pitch about 25 night games a season.

At the moment, though, you risk your life if you bring up the subject of night ball within the hearing of the Hose from Owner Tom Yawkey down to rookies Charlie Wagner and Wilfred Lefebvre a couple of experienced moonlight workers just in from Louisville.

YAWKEY RAPS NIGHT GAMES

Owner Yawkey, [illegible] didn't take kindly to the [illegible] the Sox were [illegible] in Cleveland.

And what the Fenway [illegible] said about how [illegible] after the Hose had [illegible] then flag [illegible] shows the readers of this [illegible] journal.

The least vulgar of their terms for it was "lousy."

"I must concede that the night game is a money-maker," said Yawkey, "but it isn't baseball when a pitcher like Nelson, who was soft for us at Fenway Park last week, can shut us out.

"We failed to hit not because we were in a slump but because we couldn't see the ball," stated Cronin. "There's no such thing as a good team having the edge over a weaker rival at night. The lights are perfect equalizers. A last place club has an even chance against the league leaders under the stars. So teams like the Yanks and Red Sox handicap themselves tremendously when they play a club like the A's after dark.

"There's no denying that so far night ball has proved popular with the fans and profitable for the magnates who have gone in for it.

"If this popularity and profit continue, I suppose the day is coming when every club will install lights. But I hope I'm through as a player before Fenway Park is illuminated."

COSTLY LOSS TO SOX

Last night's 3-0 was a costly [illegible] for the Fenway [illegible] [illegible] every inch of ground [illegible] the Yanks at every step [illegible] the race hurts no end. [illegible] remain within six [illegible] of the top [illegible] their annual [illegible] with the Yankees to [illegible] championship.

Dallessandro, Ex-Red Soxer, Goes to Cubs

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 16 (AP)—A deal sending Dominic Dallessandro, heavy hitting outfielder of the San Diego coast league club, to the Cubs was announced today.

John P. Corbett, Cubs' president, telegraphed from Chicago that in exchange for Dallessandro San Diego would receive Steve Mesner, shortstop now playing for Milwaukee; a pitcher on option and $1,500 in cash.

Dallessandro, who will report to the Cubs next spring, came to San Diego from the Boston Red Sox two years ago.

Latest averages credit him with a .324 percentage, derived from 131 hits in 405 times at bat in 119 games. He has hit 11 home runs.

WHY SHOULD HE CARE— IF YOU DON'T?

And You Don't Care—If You Fail to Name Your Brand

Strange, isn't it—how a man will name his brand when ordering liquor by the bottle . . . but often lets the bartender decide, when ordering a drink at the bar. If you belong to that class, it will pay you to be more particular. Don't blame your bartender when your drink doesn't taste just right. He may be using liquor that costs just as much as your favorite brand—but he simply is no mind reader! So Name Your Brand. It costs you no more. And if it is a brand that is widely advertised, you can be sure of its fine, uniform quality. For an advertised brand has a valuable reputation to protect. Your bartender usually has the brand you want. Ask for it by name—and you'll get it. For his job is to please you—that's the only way to get you to come back!

BUD CARROLL'S Rural Rube has reached a point that is eventually attained by all champions. There is a strong desire on the part of the public to see Rural Rube beaten by some other greyhound. It has grown monotonous watching Rural Rube push his nose across the finish line in front of his rivals.

I confess I am a charter member of the "Beat Rural Rube Club." This may be due to my inherent dislike of odds on favorites in betting events.

At Wonderland Park the other night I held a $2 win ticket on Suwanee when a photo decided that Rural Rube's great run through the stretch had enabled him to nose out my selection. Personally I had called Suwanee the winner. So did Sheldon Fairbanks, general manager of Wonderland Park who was standing by my elbow. We were 15 yards beyond the wire, and so could not make a perfect decision. The picture proved our calling of the race was wrong, and I am now looking for another dog to come along and beat Rural Rube.

My process of picking dogs or horses to beat the odds on favorites is quite simple. I buy win tickets on three or four long shots, and hope that one of them comes home in front. This system saves the eye strain and mental worry one experiences when he studies the form sheets too carefully.

I also held win tickets the other night on Laddy's Honor, Jonette and Legal Gamble along with Suwanee and so had four greyhounds shooting at Rural Rube. The fact it took a photo finish to beat my system was some satisfaction.

When the picture went up, members of the "Beat Rural Rube Club" admitted the champion had got home first, though there was one member who tried to suggest that the camera man gave Rural Rube an extra long nose. There are a few die hards at dog as well as horse tracks.

I presume the management of Wonderland Park will continue to feature Rural Rube, and it is possible that one of these warm Summer evenings some long shot will come along to pin the champion's ears back. When that happens, I hope to have a $2 ticket on the winner even though I may be holding tickets on six other dogs in the same race.

I know one bettor who buys so many tickets at the horse tracks that no matter who goes to the front he is able to cry, "I've got him."

A fickle public is with a champion on his way to the top, and for a short period after he has been proclaimed title holder. Then they start rooting to have the champion knocked off. It looks as if Rural Rube's number is up with this group, and I believe that it is such practices that keep the game of sports going round and round.

Henry Lapham Expects Big Sports Year

I MET HENRY LAPHAM, controlling stockholder in the Garden-Arena combine, at Wonderland Park. Lapham looks for a successful indoor sports year at the Garden.

"We have had the floor ripped out at the Garden as we have placed in new pipes for our freezing system," said Lapham. "I would not be surprised if the pipes were leaking in another year. The reason for this is the vibration in the Garden that is caused by the trains in the North Station."

Lapham declared he is looking forward to the Hearst-All-America boxing tournament that will once more be staged in the Garden. The dates for the All-America shows will be announced within a few days.

As president of the B. A. A. Lapham built the old Arena so that the Unicorn club could have a spot for its hockey team. When the original Arena was destroyed by fire, Lapham had the place rebuilt.

When the New York Garden under the direction of Tex Rickard invaded Boston, they made the mistake of not asking Lapham to become a member of their board of directors. The New York financiers thought they didn't need any help from Lapham. This is where they sealed their own doom.

Without making any protest, Lapham decided to fight the New York group. He eventually obtained control of the Boston Garden, and then freed it of every New York connection.

It was Lapham who named Walter Brown as general manager of the local Garden when George V. Brown, Walter's dad, died. The success of Walter Brown justified the faith Lapham had in him.

Lapham found time to reach out to California and acquire a large block of stock in Santa Anita, the most profitable race track in this country. A few years ago Lapham organized a syndicate, backed by some of the wealthiest horse owners in America, which made a bid for Suffolk Downs, but the deal fell through.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—Pity the poor football coach!

After scheming all year to work out a schedule climaxed by the biggest game of the year on Thanksgiving, the last Thursday in November, he finds Thanksgiving is to be moved forward a week by presidential proclamation.

What makes it worse, from the standpoint of college cash registers, is that the historically climactic game won't be played on a holiday this year. It'll just be Thursday. Team managers went to sleep last night haunted by visions o half-empty stands.

Some comments:

Ben Person, UCLA graduate manager:

"Guess we'll have to play it on a non-holiday and send the President a bill, for our loss."

John L. Griffith, Western Conference Athletic Commissioner:

"The Big Ten rule states that the conference football season must end the Saturday before Thanksgiving. The rule was predicated on the idea that Thanksgiving would be the last Thursday in November. I have not been advised that any schools desire to change schedules."

James Crowley, Fordham coach:

"It means Fordham and N. Y. U. must meet either Nov. 25 or Dec. 2."

Tomorrow's test will be strictly a trial, Cobb said. The official run will be made Saturday or some time next week.

Final Park League Playoffs at Fenway

Playoff finals in three classes of the Boston Park Department Baseball Leagues will be conducted tomorrow at Fenway Park in a day-long diamond carnival.

The card lists the D class in the morning between the North End Tomahawks and the McKay Pals of East Boston, and in the afternoon the Village A. C. Fields Corner Crusaders. This game will be followed by the Roslindale Royals playing the Dorchester Bruins for the B class crown in the windup.

The six ball clubs are the finalists who have survived season-long competition throughout the 67 playgrounds in the Hub system and under the direction of City Recreation Director Bill Mullen the youngsters will have full use of the Red Sox facilities which have been donated by Eddie Collins.

The boys will use the Sox' locker room and assemble for the favorites' lockers in multiplated ..... as to who is going to use Jimmy Foxx', Ted Williams' or Joe Cronin's locker for the day.

The public is invited free of charge to see the games which will be run under the same rules as the major league clashes.

Sailors Renew Hub Park Drive

The Navy Yard A. A. heavy artillery will resume firing tonight when they feature the evening's lid hassle in the Boston Park League in a game at Barry Park, Charlestown, with the St. Alphonsus A. A.

Lefty Anderson of the veteran Curt Fullerton will be named to the Navy Yard bridge and although Curt has to be relieved on Monday by big Jack Delaney on the tars' hill, the Park League patriarch always comes back. The Navy boys gained the second spot in the East division behind Casey Club following a sensational drive from the cellar in two weeks.

WHITINSVILLE BOY UPSETS KOSLOWSKI IN JUNIOR GOLF

WALTER SENNA EDDIE ANDERSON JACK SHEEHY

By BILL GRIMES

BLUE HILL COUNTRY CLUB, Aug. 16—Scoring a major upset, Douglas Carr of Whitinsville knocked John Koslowski of Ould Newbury right out of the State Junior golf championship here this morning, by a 3 and 2 count.

The match featured a program of brilliant golf, in the first match round of this tournament.

Most of today's battles were close, and some fine shotmaking was produced by the title contenders.

Ed Franzeim of Bellevue, who startled the golf world by shooting a 71 to be medalist here yesterday, continued his winning style this a. m. as he edged Ned Tuckerman of Cohasset, 2 and 1.

Walter Senna, New Bedford, defeated John Sides, Wellesley, 3 and 2.

Joe O'Donnell On Dilboy Card

A pugilistic treat is in store for amateur fans, when the first elimination bouts in the Golden Glove tournament, takes place tonight at Dilboy Field, Somerville, with boxing in six classes.

Headlining the card is the hard-hitting N. E. 160-pound champion, Joe O'Donnell of Everett.

Don Delenco, 135-poundee from Boston; Bernard Howard, 135-pounder from Whitinsville, are a couple of the classy lightweights scheduled to battle. Don McGrath who created a furore in the 160-pound division a few weeks back, promises to give Champion O'Donnell plenty of trouble.

Davis Cup Preview Slated at Longwood

A grand preview of the Davis Cup competition scheduled for Philadelphia next month goes on at Longwood tomorrow afternoon.

In the afternoon's headline match, the brilliant Australian combine of Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist plays the fine American team of Gene Mako and Jack Tidball.

Since tennis authorities feel the Australian tandem has too much power for Uncle Sam's doubles combinations, it will be most interesting to see how the Aussies fare against Mako and Tidball, who have been playing some slick doubles recently.

During the last two weeks, Mako and Tidball have upset many of the strong tandems in the big tourneys.

As for the Australians, they are good! Quist is a quiet performer who carries a big variety of shots. He's a veteran Davis Cupper and loves stiff competition.

The good-looking Bromwich is also a veteran of the tennis wars. It was he who caused Budge and Mako most of their trouble before they won the Davis cup last summer.

Yes, the eyes and ears of the tennis world will be interested in tomorrow's scrap at Longwood.
